OUR PANEL

Jonathan Mechanic

MODERATOR

Jonathan Mechanic is Chairman of Fried Frank's Real Estate Department and a nationally recognized leader in commercial real estate law. He advises major developers, investors, and financial institutions on complex, high-profile transactions, including landmark headquarters and joint ventures across New York City.

He has taught real estate at Harvard Law School for more than a decade and is the recipient of REBNY's Bernard H. Mendik Lifetime Leadership Award.

Dan Seder

PANELIST

Dan Seder is Co-Founder and Chief Operating Officer of Bilt, a leading platform transforming the renter experience through rewards, credit building, and a pathway to homeownership. Since its launch in 2020, Bilt has grown to more than 5 million members.

Previously, Dan led investments across private equity, venture capital and real estate at Stone Point Capital and began his career at Goldman Sachs

Will Milam

PANELIST

Will Milam is a Managing Director at Morgan Stanley and Head of Morgan Stanley Real Estate Investing (MSREI) U.S., where he leads the platform's multi-strategy real estate business. He previously served as Head of U.S. Investments for MSREI beginning in 2019 and brings more than 20 years of experience investing in and managing real estate across multiple property types and market cycles.

Previously, Will worked at HighBrook Investment Management and OTO Development. He holds a BA in Economics from Washington & Lee University.

Alicia Glen

PANELIST

Alicia Glen is a nationally recognized leader in urban development, infrastructure finance, and housing policy. She leads MSquared, an impact investing and development platform focused on affordability, sustainability, and inclusion.

Previously, she served as New York City Deputy Mayor, where she oversaw more than 25 agencies and a $100B capital budget, and led the creation of Housing New York, the nation's largest affordable housing initiative. She also formerly led Goldman Sachs' Urban Investment Group, investing over $5B in transformative projects nationwide.
